POLICE HOLD WELL DRESSED WOMAN ON SHOPLIFTING CHARGE

Well dressed and presenting the appearance of a woman of culture and refinement, Ignacio Mendez proved a surprise to the police last night when they found what they considered sufficient evidence to warrant them to arrest her on a charge of shoplifting.

A department store detective watched the Mexican woman as she loitered among the counters and finally, convinced that she was appropriating goods from the store, called Policeman Mike Strath. A small boy was with the woman at the time of her arrest. When Captain Sutherland booked her Mrs. Mendez smiled confidently and told the officer there was no one at her home to care for the child. It was not a new story to the captain for women shoplifters often take children with them on their wanderings among the stores as an insurance against their being placed in jail in case they are arrested. Captain Sutherland sent an officer to the address the woman had given as her home and found it was a real estate office. Convinced that the woman was trying to deceive him, the captain then turned the child over to the detention home and placed the woman in jail.

Representatives from several stores went through the contents of two large shopping bags which the woman had carried at the time of her arrest and identified many of the articles as having been stolen. The list included several articles of women's wearing apparel of excellent quality. The representatives from the stores declared that in selecting them she showed judgment far above that of the average pilferer. A set of china dishes, a generous quantity of lace and a pair of shoes were also found in the bags and identified.

It was the pair of shoes that betrayed Mrs. Mendez, according to officers. The shoes were shiny patent leather low-cuts and protruded above the top of one of the bags which she carried. As they were not wrapped they immediately attracted the attention of a store detective and eventually led to her arrest.

According to the representatives from the various stores who called at police headquarters to identify the property there is a mild epidemic of shop lifting at the present time. For the most part it is of a petty nature as flashy articles of small value prove to be the greatest tempters.

Cheap rings, boudoir trifles, red ribbon, gaudy ornaments and neck articles are most frequently taken by the amateur shoplifter. According to the police it has been more than a year since their attention has been called to a case of real professional shoplifting in the city. However, petty thievery is increasing, although most of the offenders finally are arrested and punished. Almost every week one or more cases of this nature are brought into police court.

WRITE IT BACKWARD

It is a mystery why the Magyars always write their names hind side to, or front side back, so to speak. A Hungarian who signs himself Kiralfy Bela is really Bela Kiralfy. An American who signs his name Harry J. Wimpus is at once known to all Hungarians as Mr. Harry, and any telegrams which are received for Mr. Wimpus are put in the unclaimed rack, because Mr. Wimpus has become Mr. Harry and is unrecognized by any other name. Thus, Bela Kun is always referred to by the Magyars as Kun Bela.—Saturday Evening Post.

AN INCONSISTENCY

DANIEL, NEWTON AND VOLTAIRE
Only an imprudent man will venture to scoff at the suggestion that it soon will be possible for an aviator to break-fast in San Francisco and dine the same evening in New York.

Major Schroeder, who holds the world's altitude record, thinks this may be done. He proposes to ascend to a height of nearly seven miles where the wind blows 250 miles an hour. With this force at his back and his plane capable of adding another 100 miles an hour, Major Schroeder sees nothing to prevent the flight being accomplished. It is the significant of the times that CHICAGO—Giant intellects do not require seven and a half hat size heads. The biggest brain at Loyola university is owned by its smallest, lightest pupil. The giant intellect is Frank Gomolski. He is 47 inches tall and weighs 47 pounds. Although only 17 years old, he leads the freshman class of St. Ignatius college at Loyola. And he shoulders a gun in the Reserve Officers' Training corps. Gomolski, the dwarf, is normal physically.

Noted Negro Orator to Speak In Phoenix Tomorrow Night

Professor Kelly Miller, noted Negro orator and educator, and dean of Howard university at Washington, D. C., will speak in Phoenix tomorrow night at the high school auditorium on the subject of "The New Negro of the New Day."

Professor Miller is considered the greatest orator and statesman of his race, and has spent years in working for racial advancement. During the war his open letter to President Wilson won widespread comment for its brilliancy and logic.

The lecture tonight will be under the auspices of the Phoenix Protective league, whose president, J. L. Davis, will introduce Professor Miller. Preceding the address a short program will be given by local talent, beginning at 8 o'clock.
